

David Emerald Womeldorff

Author, Creator-in-Chief

The Power of TED (The Empowerment Dynamic)

Background

David Emerald Womeldorff is co-founder of the Bainbridge Leadership Center (Bainbridge Island, WA). As director of the center's Organizational Leadership and Self Leadership practice areas, David's passion is in supporting individuals, teams, and organizations in leading and working from an outcome-focused and passion-powered orientation. His principals and frameworks are based on his 30 years of study, observation and application of his lessons of collaboration with a wide range of individuals and organizations.

David is originator of TED* (The Empowerment Dynamic)™. His TED framework is included in the curriculum of the University of Notre Dame's "Management and Leadership Certificate" e-learning program. He is a frequent guest presenter and facilitator on leadership topics, building collaboration and various applications of the TED* frameworks. He is currently writing 3 Vital Questions™ for Work and Life, due to be published in early 2016.

As a speaker and workshop leader, David uplifts, enlightens and inspires individuals and groups to reach new levels of collaboration through empowering relationships. David is conversational, entertaining and approachable as he shares his simple, yet profound, philosophies.

What Clients Have to Say

"TED is an elegant framework which allows people to move beyond unproductive drama in their workplace and personal relationships. David is masterful in the presentation and facilitation of the material, making it accessible, relevant and practical for all."*
